Shakespeare Comedy Set For Production Tomorrow

Bray Twins Appear In Dual Role; Elizabethan Theatre Reconstructed

Phi Beta Kappa hall will be the scene of the return of William Shakespeare to the Theatre as the William and Mary Players take the stage tomorrow, Thursday and Friday, Mar. 12, 13 and 14, for Comedy of Errors. Performances on all three nights will begin promptly at 8 p. m.

The Bard's delightful play concerns the mad situations which inevitably result from the presence of two sets of twins. The William and Mary Theatre's production stars two men who are twins in real life, Ben and James Bray. The Brays will appear as Dromio of Syracuse and Dromio of Ephesus.

The parts of the Antipholi of Ephesus and Syracuse will be done by Dick Bethards and John Manos, who, while they are not identical, bear similarities. Sumner Rand will appear as the judicial Duke; Kay Caffrey portrays Ephesus' wife, Adriana; Bill Norgren puts on 40 years as Aegeon; and Barbara Simons will do the role of Luciana.

Other Roles

Featured also are Dick Hopkins, Angelo; Geraldine Brick, Luce; Ace Livick in two parts, the Officer and the Headman; Mary McCarthy, Aemilia; Ronald King, Balthazar; Joe Buchanan, Pinch; Ralph Alvey and Allen Keys as two officers; Nancy Adams as a courtesan; and Gene Black and Ken McGinn as the merchants.

Dr. Grace Warren Landrum has written a prologue to Comedy of Errors. The prologue will be delivered by one of the members of the cast.

Roger Sherman and his stage crews are putting the finishing touches on the Elizabethan theatre which has been constructed on the Phi Beta Kappa stage. Meanwhile,

Miss Phyllis Kendall, with needle and thread and a few assistants, is attending to the fitting of the authentic Elizabethan costumes which the Players will wear for the performances. Wilford Leach will head the technical staff backstage as stage manager, with Clint Atkinson serving as Miss Hunt's assistant for the production. Mabe Watson will supervise the lighting, and Ken McGinn is in charge of make-up.

Capacity Crowds Expected

Capacity crowds are expected on all three nights, with strong indications that a number of outsiders will attend. Friday night's performance promises to be most interesting, since Phi Beta Kappa hall will be filled with hundreds of high school students and teachers from all over the Commonwealth of Virginia. After the show, they will be taken backstage to meet the cast and to inspect the set.

As an added feature to the show on Friday, the Radio club will set up a microphone in the audience for on-the-spot interviews with the audience. The cast, too, will be interviewed backstage just before curtain time. These talks will go out over the air on Station WRNL.

Tickets went on sale Monday afternoon. The box-office in Phi Beta Kappa hall will be open every afternoon until the final performance provided that tickets remain to be sold.

Choir Will Appear For Second Concert

Carl A. Fehr, director, has announced that the original dates for the choir concert, Mar. 18 and 19, have been changed. The new date for the concert presentation will be Sunday, Apr. 13, at 4 p. m., and Monday, Apr. 14, at 8:15 p. m.

WSG Ballot Nominates Keeney; Simons, Sprague, For President

Fehr Announces Concert Changes

William and Mary's new choir, which was organized at the beginning of this semester, will make its second appearance in chapel on Wednesday night, Mar. 12, announced Carl A. Fehr, director.

This choir is now practicing for a concert, which will be given later in the season in conjunction with the chorus.

First Election To Choose Vice-President, Treasurer

Election of President of the Executive Council of WSCGA will take place tomorrow in women's dormitories from 4 to 6 p. m.

Nominations for the first group of officers to be elected for WSCGA were made Monday, Mar. 10, at 6:30 p. m. in Phi Beta Kappa hall. Shirley Sprague, Mary Keeney, and Barbara Simons were nominated from the floor for president.

The Senior Nominating committee nominated two women for each office. Nominations for president came from the floor. The slate prepared by the committee includes the office of vice-president, treasurer of the executive council and three junior members of the Honor council.

Slate Prepared

Jackie Freer, and Dotsy The-dieck are up for vice-president. Mary Moore and Ruth Nenzel were nominated from the floor. Nominations for treasurer are Barbara Campbell, Nancy Kurtz, Jeanne Payne and Marjorie Pitchford.

The list for the three junior members of the Honor council includes Carol Achenbach, Alice Baxley, Jane Coleman, Jody Felix, Beverly Owens, Ruth Volkert. Nominations from the floor add Nancy Adams, Willa Leonhart, Eleanor Pendleton, Charlotte Phillips, Joan Stout and Tuga Wilson.

Girls living in sorority houses will vote in Jefferson.

Laurie Pritchard gave a report on the telephone situation in the dormitories. If additional phones can be secured within the next several weeks, they will be installed. Charles Duke, Bursar, stated. If they can not be obtained within that period, the situation will remain as it is until next September when dial phones for the campus will be installed.

Social Rules Discussed

A motion was made proposing that the college alter its stand on the ruling that in spending a night within Williamsburg, the same social rules apply, as in spending a night out of town. A second motion was made placing the bowling alley, now under new management, on limits for girls.

Seventy Students Try For Parts In Show

Tryouts for the Backdrop club's varsity show were held Wednesday, Mar. 5, in the small cafeteria. "Because of the large number of people trying out for parts," said Ken McGinn, director of the production, "we have not been able to select any cast members as yet. This will be done by the process of elimination."

Approximately 70 people tried out for singing, acting and dancing parts. McGinn stated that he is very pleased with the results and that there is a lot of talent on campus.

Chorus Line Needed

McGinn declared that girls are still needed for a chorus line. Tryouts will continue this week, with separate auditions being held for singers, dancers and actors.

Students interested in working on the stage crew should contact Bill Smith or Wilford Leach. Those interested in working with the publicity committee should contact Bob Sanderson or Bill Probert.

Re-activated this year, the Backdrop club is presenting its first post-war varsity show in May. Hades is the theme of the production.

Flat Hat's "Printer's Ink Shuffle" To Honor W-M's Handsomest Man

The "handsomest man on campus" will get crowned at The FLAT HAT's annual dance, Printer's Ink Shuffle, on Saturday, Mar. 15. Homecoming Queen Jo Wattles will crown the monarch.

Each fraternity was asked to submit one candidate, with others to be nominated by petition. Ten fraternities submitted names and from these the Pan-Hellenic council selected the five candidates who will run for election as the handsomest man. The five men chosen by the council are Lou Hoitsma, Hank Blanc, Bill Smith, Rux Birnie and Dusty Ash.

Women Vote Tonight

All women students will meet in their dormitories after 10 p. m.

Game Room Stays Open On Sundays

Sunday night open-houses which have been held regularly in the game room of the Lodge from 7 p. m. to 9:45 p. m. will be continued every Sunday night from Mar. 5 to the end of May provided that the room is not booked by any other organization for that night.

Initial arrangements for opening the game room to college students were made last spring when Thomas A. Moyles, resident manager of the Lodge, contacted Tom Athey and the Pan-Hellenic council and they decided that individual fraternities would sponsor these open houses each Sunday night. This time was selected by the members of the fraternity groups since the educational program sponsored by the Lodge was run from Monday through Friday nights.

Original Winter Schedule

Plans were made with the Lodge during the winter months because of the slackened tourist season with this privilege scheduled to run from Nov. 1 to Mar. 1. "Although we probably won't know definitely until Sunday morning whether or not the room will be unoccupied that evening, any time that nothing is booked the college students may have the use of it," Mr. Moyles declared.

To accommodate the students on previous Sunday nights, the selling of beer was reinstated and the small dining room adjoining the coffee shop opened. Although the juke box has been removed, a victrola will be furnished by the Lodge but students will have to provide their own records, according to Mr. Moyles.

tonight to place their votes. The votes will be counted by The FLAT HAT dance committee and the winners name will be kept secret until he is crowned at the dance on Saturday night. The prize for the winner will be one year's subscription to Esquire.

Jane Coleman is chairman of plans for the Printer's Ink Shuffle. Committee members are Beverly Owens, Nicky Dillard, Shirley Lyons, Bruce Bugbee, Walter Raymond, Patty Lou Young and Jan Walser.

Dr. W. T. Thompson To Speak Tomorrow

Professor W. Taliaferro Thompson, D. D., Litt. D., who will speak at the chapel service on Wednesday, Mar. 12, at 6:30 p. m., is a Professor of Christian Education at Union Seminary, Richmond, Va.

Dr. Thompson will speak on "Four Kinds of Students." Following the chapel service there will be a reception in Monroe hall from 7 to 8 p. m.

The speaker's wide interests and attainments include not only the various fields of Religious Education, Child Psychology, Adolescent Psychology, but also Pastoral Counseling, Pastoral Theology, Worship, the Psychology of Religion, and Hospital Visitation.

After graduation from Davidson College and Union Theological Seminary, he held pastorates at Lexington, N. C., Knoxville, Tenn., and Mobile, Ala. During the First World War he was Director of Army YMCA work at Camp Jackson and Camp Green.

Webber And French To Address Delegates Of Debate Tournament

Charles C. Webber, president of the Virginia Council of the CIO, and Carol E. French, director of industrial relations of the National Association of Manufacturers, will address delegates of the invitational debate tournament which will be held at William and Mary on Friday and Saturday, Mar. 14 and 15. The speakers will address an open meeting at 8 p. m. in Washington 200 on Friday.

45 Debates

A total of 45 debates will be held during the two-day period with 11 schools participating in the tournament sponsored by the Intercollegiate Debate council. Each school is sending four debaters and a faculty judge. The subject to be debated is "Resolved: That labor should be given a direct share in the management of industry." Representatives will be sent from the universities of Florida, South Carolina, Indiana, Virginia, Richmond, and North Carolina; and from Swarthmore College, Georgetown University, Lynchburg College, and the U. S. Military Academy.

Debates will be held in the Apollo room, Dodge room, Great hall, Barrett east living room, and Washington 100, 200 and 300. The week end will be climaxed by a Saturday noon banquet at the Lodge for members of all the debate teams.

Open To Everyone

"The debates are open to everyone on campus to attend, as are the tea in the Dodge room on Friday at 4:30 p. m., and the addresses by Mr. Webber and Mr. French," stated Betty Jane Taylor, president of the Intercollegiate Debate council.

The two-day schedule is listed below.

Friday: Registration, Phi Beta Kappa foyer, 11 a. m.; general assembly, Apollo room, 11:30 a. m.; first round of debate, 1 p. m.; second round of debate, 2:15 p. m.; third round of debate, 3:30 p. m.; tea, Dodge room, 4:30 p. m.; fourth round of debate, 6:45 p. m.; address, Washington 200, 8 p. m.

Saturday: Fifth round of debate, 8:30 a. m.; final round, exhibition championship, Phi Beta Kappa hall, 9:45 a. m.; banquet, Lodge, 12 noon.

With the success of Mid-winters week end the question of the students' capability in handling their social affairs was settled. Entirely organized, publicized, decorated, and subscribed to by students, the dance was one of the most successful of the year—both financially and socially. The results of this dance give the President's Aides practically assured success in preliminary plans for June Finals.

Mid-Week Entertainment

Several months elapse, however, between these two elaborate formals. During these months, the student will again fall into the quandary of what to do? Finals are fine to look forward to, we say, but about next week end, and the week end after . . . what about entertainment for week nights?

Charles Chandler, manager of the WIGWAM, has promised that the WIGWAM will remain open five evenings a week, and if enough students take advantage of this opportunity, the small dining hall will be open for dancing. Perhaps this isn't all that we had hoped for in the way of a student-union center, but it is a step in the right direction. Yet, so far, the WIGWAM's evening patronage has been almost nil. Very few have taken advantage of this opportunity. WHY? It's a convenient place for all of us to get together, to dance and to buy refreshments. As soon as building materials are available, booths will be installed in the small dining hall, and in the not-too-distant future, we can look forward to a separate student-union building.

In the meantime, we can prove that we're not just talking about our need for this building, but that we really want and deserve it. Patronage of the WIGWAM is one of our best means. Mr. Chandler has set aside this month as a trial period for the evening openings of the WIGWAM. Why not take your friends and go over any week night? The WIGWAM is for students and can prove to be a stepping stone in acquiring what we really want. Let's not just talk and gripe; let's give it a try. After all, it's up to us.

Alumni Gazette Editorial Poses The Burning Question

What's Wrong With William And Mary?

The following editorial is reprinted from the March, 1947, issue of the Alumni Gazette:

Many people seem able to satisfy their interest in William and Mary by raising this question without evincing much interest in answering it—not to mention a display of any deliberate and intelligent effort to rectify such things as may be at fault in the body academic. That there is something basically wrong can hardly be questioned when the periodic crisis through which the College has passed in the last few years, accompanied by all the unpleasant publicity in the press, are recalled.

The move to abolish the Law School and its revival a week later; the irregularities at the Norfolk Division, followed by the College's loss of accreditation; the hullabaloo resulting from a Flat Hat editorial; the disturbance at the Fisheries Laboratory, operated by the State and the College; and the social fraternity status, which resulted in a general student protest—are a few of the important issues, though by no means all, which have tended to keep the College "punch-drunk" since 1939.

What are the reasons for all this? There are probably many but a summation might indicate an incredible lack of some good sound "thinking" on the part of the Board of Visitors, the administration, the faculty, students and ALUMNI . . . a lack of deep "thinking" on the real purposes and aims of the College.

Presumably, there would be some unity of agreement that William and Mary, like other institutions of higher learning, exists for the high purpose of expanding the intellect. Indeed, it is scarcely conceivable that any other purpose could supersede it in importance. Accepting this thesis, it behooves the college community to work industriously to that end and cease the assassination of the morale, spirit and reputation of William and Mary.

Students, individually and collectively, might well realize that they do not own the College; that there must be some law and order, some high authority responsible for maintaining the school which should be respected; that they come here voluntarily and fall heir to an obligation to those who have preceded them and who have equal interests in the College; that they should not bring it in disfavor anywhere at any time.

Alumni, too, are not guiltless of inflicting misfortunes upon the College. By and large, they have been void of constructive help. Those in closest proximity, while undoubtedly professing interest in the whole College, make no particular display of it except to support the football team while at the same time laboring under the illusion that when they have subscribed to the Athletic Loyalty Fund to the extent of $25 (for which they receive over $30 in tickets to games), they have made an important contribution to the College. Several months later, when asked to contribute to the College's annual fund program to encourage faculty research, grant scholarships, buy books for the Library, and help with other high purposes of the College, they do not heed the call. While neighboring small colleges raise between $15,000 and $20,000 a year from smaller groups of alumni, William and Mary's annual effort does not exceed $5,000 and most of this from alumni outside of Virginia.

How can one explain this complacency—this inexcusable indifference toward a College that has given so much to so many? Of course alumni should not be judged by their financial contributions alone. There are other ways in which their interest in the welfare of the College may be helpful. The Society of Alumni presents an opportunity for constructive work. While the Society currently enjoys the largest membership in its 104-year history, it is a weak and ineffective organization that can scarcely round up a quorum with which to do business at its annual meetings. It is the one forum where alumni can and should be heard but which annually hears little more than perfunctory minutes and reports and elects members to the Board of Directors.

Yes, some sound "thinking" on the part of alumni as to their obligations to the College and their role in promoting its highest purposes would do much to even the keel.

The Board of Visitors usually escapes criticism for the ills that beset the College. It must share a large responsibility, considering its power and influence.

In a two or three-hour meeting three or four times a year, and rarely with all members present, the Board legislates for the College and too frequently without sufficient study or investigation. Policies are established which are not always clearly understood and regulations adopted which appear to be based on impulse rather than on logic and vision. In the eyes of a goodly number of

Carter Requests Light On The Subject In

William And Mary-Go-Round

Among the perplexing, not to say annoying, entities which confront the bewildered freshman after crossing the threshold of the College of William and Mary is the number of priorities, which the college seems to have. Almost everyone revels in the glorious past and far be it from us to cast any stain upon the tablets adorning the walls of the Wren Building. But if this research continues, it may not be a surprise to learn that Columbus' idea in coming to America was not to locate a new waterway to India, but to establish a department of something or other at this college.

We suppose the college is in keeping with tradition in regards to the lighting system employed in the stately and staid Wren Building. But we maintain it is absurd that the faculty and students should be subjected to the "second oldest lighting system in America." On dark, cloudy, gloomy days the problem of attaining proper lighting for the benefit of better vision is HELL . . . one bare bulb in the middle of the room. It is a shame that the faculty and students should undergo the undeserved and annoying eyestrain in this respect. IS IT NECESSARY ????

Among other "traditions" which have not been maintained, repaired, replenished, operated, etc. include: the lack of the American flag flying from the pole near the Marshall-Wythe Building. Do we have a flag which can be used or is that custom reserved only for war years?? The picket fence behind the Wren Building is very drab and shabby and badly in need of a repaint job as well as replacing some of the broken or otherwise missing pickets. We realize these are small grievances (or what you will), but we believe they are necessary in keeping with the gentle beauty and appearance of the campus.

Paralleling the line of thought . . . a rather amusing incident occurred the other morning . . . the discovery of another tradition on campus . . . breakfast at 0700 hours. Due to the need for further study for an exam, Alpha, of the room "Alpha and the Mole," was rather rudely awakened at a pre-dawn hour. Shortly thereafter, the Mole and other itiferant newspaper readers inquired if Alpha desired to go to breakfast with them. Confusion and bewilderment set in as Alpha ordinarily did not awaken before 0900 hours and hence had insufficient knowledge of such a thing as a college breakfast. Natural queries followed such as "Is there a line?" and "Is the toast very good?" Each question received the same answer, "I don't know," whereupon Alpha demanded that there would be Hell to pay if he were fooled. Upon entering the dining hall and finding no line, Alpha immediately exclaimed, "How long has this been going on?" . . . he did not like the toast. Nobody else does either.

WE LEAVE YOU WITH THIS

A college student arose from his table in a fashionable dining-room and walked toward the door.

He was passing the house detective at the entrance when a silver bowl dropped from his bulging coat.

The guest glanced calmly at the officer, then turned with an expression of polite annoyance toward the occupants of the room. "Ruffians!" he said, "Who threw that?"

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

In recent weeks there have been numerous campaigns conducted for money on this campus.

During the school year students are asked to give to the Tuberculosis Fund, the March of Dimes, Red Cross, World Student Service Fund, Easter Seals, and on ad infinitum. While the idea behind these drives is certainly fine, it is inefficient and inconvenient to have so many special drives.

Why not have one big drive on campus to collect donations for all these extremely worth while causes. The money obtained in this consolidated drive could be divided on a percentage basis determined from past years' contributions.

This plan was rejected last year by the Women Students' Cooperative Government Association, but I feel it is worthy of reconsideration.

Sincerely,

Name withheld by request.

JUST A PASSIVE THOUGHT

the faculty, the Board tends to represent a glorified athletic committee and defenders of the age-old nostrum that a winning football team, regardless of the cost, is the salvation of the College. This makes for a low and dispirited faculty morale and occasionally results in the resignation of outstanding instructors who quietly go elsewhere. It is legend in every university that the backbone of the institution is its faculty. No matter how sagacious the governing board may be, it is only a happy and competent faculty that can make a happy and successful school and inspire its students to their greatest efforts. It is not enough to say that dissatisfied faculty members are free to leave. Some, of course, do. But most will not. Many have become firmly rooted and cannot leave. They will remain passive and this is not a healthy condition. Besides, the vast majority of them love William and Mary—with no less fervor than do members of the Board.

Is it not time for the Board of Visitors to exhibit some new sound "thinking" too? To do so and by virtue of their over-all authority, a great many of William and Mary's difficulties may be overcome. Appointment to the Board of Visitors is a great honor. It is not a reward or decoration. It is an appointment implying public duty and hard service.

The administration's position in all of this is not enviable. They are always in the center of whatever disturbance, confusion or unpleasantness occurs. The administration exists only to permit the College to function. They are not their own excuse for being. They are not "The College." They must serve the Board of Visitors, the faculty, the students and, to a degree, the alumni. They try to please all. They might do a better job of it if all these groups would remember the broad and worthy and best aims of the College.

To the extent we have a vision of the greatness of William and Mary's past, to which we so often refer, should we not try to have a long vision of her future and make her great for the coming generations of Americans rather than for our individual satisfaction and glory of the present? It will never be accomplished with continuous disturbances and unfortunate headlines.

Many are the voices of counsel. We need more voices of vision.

Oil Trader Carter To Address Fifth Business Forum Tomorrow

Harvey D. Carter of Scarsdale, N. Y., president of the Oil Trading company, will be the business forum speaker in the fifth of the series tomorrow at 4 p. m. in Rogers 212, according to Charles F. Marsh, head of the department of business administration. The subject of Mr. Carter's talk has not been announced.

Having spent a lifetime in the oil business, Mr. Carter was operating manager, Tank Steamer division, U. S. War Shipping Board, immediately after World War I. Later he was named manager of bulk sales and transportation, Piercer Oil corporation, and continued in that position for three years.

In 1935, Mr. Carter organized the Oil Trading company of which he is now president. During the recent conflict, he was director of the petroleum supply administration.

Toulmin Last Speaker

Colonel Harry A. Toulmin spoke on "Building New Businesses" in the fourth of the business forums, held on Wednesday, Mar. 6. He stressed the necessity for knowledge and training in successful business management.

Dr. Marsh has stated that interest has been intensely keen in the business forum speakers. "We have various types of business operation outlined for the students, and they have been able to obtain an insight we could not provide for them in the average lectures," he stated.

Sigma Pi Announces Fraternity Sweetheart

Sigma Pi fraternity held a formal dance in Great hall, Friday, Feb. 28, in honor of their founders. As is the annual custom of the fraternity, a sweetheart was elected from among those girls pinned to a Sigma Pi, and presented with an inscribed locket.

During intermission, Dr. J. D. Carter, fraternity sponsor, explained this custom to the audience, and then called upon Mrs. Jo Cornell Clarke, last elected sweetheart, to present the sweetheart locket of the current year to Virginia Rassinier. During the presentation, The Four Braves quartet sang the sweetheart song of Sigma Pi.

Bland Crowder gave a skit, and the quartet sang several other songs before dancing was resumed.

Chemists To Exhibit Authentic Navy Film

Operation Crossroads, a sound movie in technicolor, will be shown on Tuesday, Mar. 18 at 7:30 p. m. in Washington 200.

The film is an account of both the surface and the underwater atomic bomb tests at Bikini, and will be shown through the courtesy of Lt. H. A. Sparies, USNR, of the naval reserve armory at Newport News.

"It should be interesting to all students because it is an authentic navy film," stated Harmon L. Hoffman, representing the student affiliates of the American chemical society who are sponsoring the film.

Sprague Calls Attention To Activities Limitations

Shirley Sprague, chairman of the Points System committee of the Interclub council, has requested that all students check on the points system issued by the council before they consider nominations for the coming elections.

The total number of points which may be held by any person for one year is 17. A copy of the points system is included in the Student Assembly by-laws printed in the Indian Handbook.

Bobby Byrne Records First Platter; Enjoys Playing For College People

By TERRIE HOWE

The white streamers hung forlornly, but the lonely snowmen stood their guard. The dimly-lighted floor was almost deserted. Bobby Byrne, with his tie askew, said, "Whew! Mind if I sit down? I've been standing all evening! By the way," he said settling his tie, "I love to play colleges. You usually get quite a wonderful reception!"

"I had the usual trials and tribulations of budding musicians," said Bobby, "practice, practice, practice! — eight hours a day!" Both he and his brother Don, who is currently playing with the band, were started off by their musician father.

When the Dorsey brothers came through Detroit and played at his high school in 1935, Bobby who had been working with a local band, played the trombone with them. School over, he got a wire to join the band. "Then came the big blow-up. The brothers split; Tommy quit; and I ended up playing Tommy's book!" Several years later, Bobby was "talked into being a band leader by a booking office."

The band, organized in the fall of '39, lasted until 1942. "I just started to get recognition in the local college crowd, but about that time the war came along." Bobby, who had always had a secret yearning to do army flying, got his chance, and joined the A.A.F. for three years.

Once out, he reorganized the band and played the college circuit for awhile. The band now is going out to California for nine weeks, and then to New York to record with a new company, Rainbow Records. Bobby's first record will be released in about six weeks. "It's a little unusual for a dance band," he said. "I'm under an obligation not to tell what it is. We're waiting for public reaction."

Bobby was born on a farm 12 miles south of Columbus, Ohio, "but I left there at a very tender age, and ended up in Detroit." He was born May 13, 1918, "which at this moment makes me 28 and single. And I love pretty girls!"

Flying and hunting ("a little deer and pheasant") are his two extra-curricular activities. Now with around 1700 hours, civilian and army, to his credit, Bobby got his pilot's license in 1936.

Except for playing, Bobby says his life is spent on busses and trains. "It amazes me how people love to travel!" he said shaking his head. He wants a nice ten-room house, someplace, "where I'll never see a bus or train!"

Philosophy Professor To Discuss Democracy

Raphael Demos, holder of the Alford professorship or natural religion, moral philosophy, and civil polity at Harvard University, will speak on Plato and Democracy on Thursday evening, Mar. 20, in Phi Beta Kappa hall.

Dr. A. Pelzer Wagener, chairman of the committee on special events, describes Dr. Demos as "one of the outstanding scholars as well as one of the most interesting and popular lecturers at Harvard."

On the following night, Mar. 21, Dr. Demos will address a joint meeting of the Philosophy club and Eta Sigma Phi.

Exeter Scholarship Open To Students

Applications for the Exeter College scholarship are now being accepted by Dr. William G. Guy, chairman of the committee on the award of the scholarship.

William and Mary has an agreement with Exeter College whereby the college sends one of its outstanding students abroad for a year's study at Exeter, and a student from Exeter comes to the college for the same period.

College Fees Waived

Exeter College is an undergraduate, coeducational college of high scholastic standing and offers a wide variety of studies. All college fees will be waived for the exchange student who will live in one of the college residence halls.

The scholarship is open to students who are about to enter their junior year or who are members of the graduating class. The deadline for applications is May 1. Applications may be addressed to Dr. Guy at the college and should be accompanied by a brief statement of the proposed line of study at Exeter.

Last year, the scholarship was offered for the first time since before the war. Jack Simmons was awarded the scholarship, and Kay Caffrey is the exchange student from Exeter.

Raymond Massey Discloses Past, Plans, Impressions Of Williamsburg

The tall, gaunt man took long strides as he walked into the lounge of the Williamsburg Inn, thrust his huge hand into that of your reporter, and announced, "My name is Raymond Massey."

At his suggestion, the interview was held in a small anteroom, amid several rounds of beer. Mr. Massey looked little more than 40, although he admits being older. The trace of grey at the temples was somewhat inconsistent with his youthful, sensitive face, and those eyes which flash so menacingly on the screen seem to reflect a boyish twinkle in real life.

First off, he wanted to spike the rumor that his daughter may attend William and Mary. Following a barrage of questions, he gave a complete account of his recent activities: "My wife and I were motoring up from Georgia, happened to be in Williamsburg as the day ended, and decided to spend the night. Liked the place so well decided to stay a week. What I have seen here has been delightful. The Restoration is a wonderful achievement. I think the Governor's Palace is particularly fine. "My next move? I'm off to Hollywood to do Mourning Becomes Electra. Then, in the autumn, I'll be appearing in a new comedy by Donald Ogden Stewart, How I Wonder."

Theatre Career

Massey's life and times would make wonderful material for a novel. Born in Canada, but now an American citizen, he served in the Canadian Army in the first World War, and was wounded in 1916. Turning professional soldier, he remained to serve six years in the service. Tiring of military life, and realizing the need for an education, he sailed for England to enroll in Oxford University. At the completion of his course, Massey returned to America to look for work. He passed a theatre one day and decided to go and ask for a job. He got it, and hasn't been off the stage from that time. His star has risen steadily since that wonderful day; but only in the last eight years has he achieved the height of fame and recognition as a great artist. His portrayal of Abe Lincoln in Illinois brought him international prominence. Mr. Massey is more closely associated with the former president than any actor in the world.

His wife is a lawyer, and a lovely one, at that. The Masseys have three children, two boys and a girl, none of whom have the slightest inclination for the theatrical world.

Told about the forthcoming college production, Comedy of Errors, Mr. Massey commented that he had played Hamlet in a Broadway production 16 years ago, and that he planned to do some Shakespearean roles in the future. He issued a little advice to those who planned to make a career of the theatre: "The only way to learn to act is to get up on a stage and act! And unless you really love the theatre, don't go into it. Show business is insecure and precarious. Sometimes, even when you're at the top, you'll wonder if it's worth it."

"Take Your Time"

To college students, he had this to say: "Don't race through your education. If you rush, someday you'll realize that, despite your degree, you are uneducated. Get a general, liberal background no matter what your field. But take your time, take your time."

Your reporter took four pages of notes, and soon had exhausted his questionnaire. Thereupon, Mr. Massey took the reins of the conversation. A thinker as well as an artist, Raymond Massey's talents extend beyond dramatic ability alone.

He is a man among the people. Only after such a long talk with Mr. Massey can one realize why he has performed so brilliantly as Abraham Lincoln. Unchanged by fanfare and fame, Raymond Massey is a man to be reckoned with, aside from his position on the American stage. You ought to meet him... he's a great guy...

Pan-Hel Abolishes Quota After Mid-semester Marks

After mid-semester grades come out, the quota system will be abolished and sororities may have open rushing, the Pan-Hellenic council has ruled.

Rushing rules for the fall semester were discussed at a meeting of the council on Monday Mar. 3. Selects Candidates

In selecting the "Most Handsome Man on Campus," the Pan-Hellenic council narrowed the number of candidates down to five. Previously, each fraternity had nominated one man.

Revision of the constitution will soon begin, although there will be only minor changes made, according to Ellen Diggs, president of the council.

Dr. Brandt Addresses IRC Club Members

Dr. Thomas O. Brandt, assistant professor of German, described the present condition of Austrian internal affairs to members of the International Relations club, at the club's meeting in Washington 300, Tuesday, Mar. 4.

Dr. Brandt, former resident of Austria, gave a brief outline of Austrian history and geography, and described the conditions existing in the country when he left, shortly after the German occupation. He based many of his comments concerning the present condition of the country on letters written to him recently by friends who have remained in Austria.

Bob Cartwright, president of the club, announced that Kay Caffrey, British exchange student, will analyze the present political situation in Great Britain, at the club's next meeting, Tuesday, Mar. 25, in the Apollo room of Phi Beta Kappa hall.

William And Mary Besieged;

3000 Applicants Seek Admission

By JANE COLEMAN

With a multitude of men and women clamoring for admission to colleges all over the country, William and Mary has been besieged with almost 3000 applications for admission to the sacred portals.

Overcrowded conditions are in evidence everywhere around the campus, and it is not difficult to see that this 3,000 number will have to be pared down considerably by the time the Fall semester, 1947-1948, opens. In fact, it is hard to see how any more students can be accommodated here—any more, that is, over and above the class which graduates this June.

Two hundred and twenty-five women have been estimated as the number of new women students to enter next fall, with 2000 applications on file for the entire female group. Approximately 25 transfers from the Norfolk Division will be accepted.

Transfers To Be Accepted

In order to build the class of 1950 to its normal size, 50 sophomore transfers will be admitted. They will be selected from the group who made application last year, but could not be accepted because of the housing conditions. An estimated number of 150 freshman women is the number that can be housed next fall.

"Well over half the students accepted will be Virginia residents," stated Dean Lambert. New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Ohio are other states that are strongly represented at William and Mary, although no preference is given to any locality, but Virginia.

900 Applications For Men

There are 900 applications on file for all men students who desire entrance to William and Mary next fall. Of this number, about 75 who will be accepted are former students, who are just getting out of the service.

Approximately 325 men, in all, will be accepted. Twenty-five will be transfers from the Norfolk division and 75 will be transfers from the St. Helena annex, which now has about 1000 men attending there. Plans have been made to accept 150 freshmen-veterans and non-veterans.

Vet's Dorm Will House 100

Brown hall will continue to house men. The Jamestown Vet's dorm will house 100 men, and will be used in place of the Bright house and the Richmond Road Dorm.

Twenty men moved into the Jamestown Vet's Dorm on Saturday, Mar. 8, relieving fourth floor Old Dominion of its occupants, and some of the Richmond Road contingent.

Tribe Baseball Schedule Lists 17 Foes

Tri-Color Track Season Opens With Dartmouth

Six dual engagements and competition in three other meets, the Virginia "Big Six," the Southern Conference and State A. A. U., are listed on the William and Mary track schedule announced by Athletic Director R. N. (Rube) McCray.

The Indians, coached for the first time by Thomas W. Power, one-time Duke University football and track star, launch their campaign against Dartmouth College Apr. 1 and conclude their slate almost two months later by competing in the A. A. U. meet to be held here for the second time in as many years.

With less than three weeks of practice behind his team, Power said a clear-cut picture has not yet been gained of the prospects. "It looks as though we will have to build around eight or 10 men," he stated. "We appear to be fairly good in the dashes and the half-mile. I'm not too certain about any other events."

Although a recent shoulder injury to Walter (Bubbles) Leonard, of Bloomington, N. J., removed an outstanding candidate for the shot put and discus, Coach Power said he is hopeful Norfolk's George Hughes will prove a valuable weight man. Harry Wenning, of Bloomfield, N. J., won the Southern Conference javelin throw last year and will be on hand this Spring.

Half-Mile Prospects

Max Staszkesky, of Wilmington, Del., and Freshman Clarence Roy, of Norfolk, are leading candidates for the half-mile. While starring at Granby High School, Roy ran the distance in 2:02.

Bob McFall, 100-yard dash standout in pre-war years, is back in school and Power is counting upon him, together with Hampton's Bernie Rickett and the Newport News brothers, Albert and Frank Rosenfeld, to win points for William and Mary in the sprints. Rickett is also a broad jump stand-out.

The Indians' schedule:

- Apr. 1* and 2—Dartmouth, here.
 - Apr. 17—Maryland, there.
 - Apr. 23—Apprentice School, here.
 - Apr. 26—V. M. I., there.
 - Apr. 30—Apprentice School at Newport News.
 - May 3—Richmond, here.
 - May 10—Big Six meet, site undecided.
 - May 16 and 17—Southern Conference meet at Chapel Hill.
 - May 24—A. A. U. meet, here.
- * Denotes unofficial contest.

Squaws Gain First Triumph, Winning Over N.Y.U., 36-35

Fulfilling for the first time their scoring potentialities a fast and highly accurate group of William and Mary forwards led the Squaws in their first victory of the season against N. Y. U., 36-35. The game was played last Friday in New York.

Jimmie Murphy, led the attack with 22 points, a total which equals her scoring power in the seven previous games. Using mostly lay-up shots, which accounted for seven of her goals, she still proved a decisive threat in long shots by sinking three from behind the 15-foot line.

N. Y. U. opened the scoring with Mary Sullivan, their six-foot forward, dropping in a charity toss. Elaine Passow retaliated for the Tri-Color by getting a lay-up to even the score. Murphy took over from there for the Squaws and added two more baskets to send the Williamsburgers surging ahead, 6-1.

By quarter-time, Murphy had added four more points and Millie Riddle contributed two on an overhead shot from a rebound. At

Talbert Trips Tribe Net Ace

After extending his opponent to 22 games in the opening set and coming back to take the second, Fred Kovaleski bowed to second-seeded Bill Talbert, 12-10, 4-6, 6-1, 6-0, in a quarter-final match of the National Indoor tennis championships last Wednesday in New York.

Kovaleski, who will play one of the major roles for the Indian net squad during the coming season, demonstrated a fine service and excellent ground strokes as he played on even terms with the country's No. 6 man for two sets.

Talbert Rallies

Talbert had to use every shot in his repertoire before he was able to salvage the initial set after trailing by 3-5. Then, after his younger foe had evened the contest, the national doubles champion called on his reserve strength to race through the remaining sets with the loss of only one game.

Kovaleski, who ranks 21st nationally, had staged the biggest upset of the tournament on the previous day when he defeated fifth-seeded Frank Shields, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, to gain the quarter-finals. The William and Mary star made full use of his fast service and accurate backhand in eliminating the former Davis Cup star.

Two Victories

In his preliminary encounters Kovaleski stopped Robert Arnold, 7-5, 6-2, in the opening round and then tripped Marvin Kent, winner over Earl Cochell, in the second by scores of 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

Kovaleski and Phil Hanna drew Jack Kramer and Bob Falkenburg in the first round of doubles competition and went down, 9-7, 6-4.

Kovaleski and Barbara Scofield reached the mixed doubles semifinals before losing to Kramer and Pauline Betz, 6-3, 9-7.

In the second quarter, N. Y. U., paced by Edith Andorfer, scored ten points to the Squaws five to come within one point of tying the score. But the Tri-Color held on to the lead at the half, 19-18.

The Squaws were given a decisive advantage in the second half when Sullivan, whose height could not be matched, left the game on fouls early in the third period, after scoring five more points.

Murphy again sparked the William and Mary forwards, collecting ten points. Passow added three, while Riddle and Tommy Smith each contributed a goal for the Squaws.

The game was never in the bag by any means. With 50 seconds left to play, N. Y. U., three points behind, was awarded a free shot. It was missed, but Penny captured the rebound and sank an overhead basket to bring the score to 36-35. William and Mary then took the ball in center and managed to hold on to it while the remaining seconds of the game ticked away.

Intramurals

Form held true in this week's intramurals with the top teams winning and the teams near the bottom of the list losing. Sigma Rho captured their sixth successive win by topping Theta Delta Chi, 49-23. SAE bounced back from a 40-23 beating at the hands of Kappa Alpha to beat Phi Alpha 44-12. Phi Alpha also dropped a 21-13 decision to Sigma Pi, with the Crowder brothers, Ed and Bob, contributing nineteen of their team's points between them.

After a very close first half, Vets "A" pulled away in the second stanza to beat O. D. "B" 38-26. High man in this game was Pat Massaro of the losers with 13. Smart Boys had an easy time beating City Slickers 36-15.

There are 128 entrants in the ping pong tournament. Quarter finals, semi-finals and finals will all be played March 20.

Matches may be played on tables in either Old Dominion Hall or on the second floor of Blow Gym. Tables will be set up from 7-10 p. m. in the old gym on March 11, 12, 13, 14, 18, 19, and 20.

The deadline for playing the second round of the handball matches has been set as March 12. To date those advanced to the third round include George Valentine, Moe Kish, Clay Andrews, Skeets Giordano, Bob Sherry, Iver Brooks, and Harry Levine. All third round matches must be played by March 22.

Diamond Squad To Play Nine Contests At Home

Nine home contests, four of which are Southern Conference tilts, feature the Tribe's 1947 baseball schedule. The season gets under way on Mar. 31 when William and Mary plays host to the Washington and Lee Generals.

The slate includes 14 State engagements, one meeting with the Wake Forest Deacons and a two-game series here on Apr. 1 and 2 against Dartmouth University.

In defending their Big Six championship, the Indians will be without the services of several of last year's first-string performers. As Coach Dick Gallagher puts it, "We've lost most of the hitting."

Kappa Takes Cage Honors

Showing the ability by which they have stayed ahead in intramural basketball competition, Kappa Kappa Gamma walked away with the sorority championship yesterday, defeating Alpha Chi by a score of 35-20.

For the first quarter Alpha Chi's defense proved a valuable aid as they intercepted numerous passes which kept the Kappa's from scoring, but the height of the Kappa forwards proved a decided advantage in retrieving the ball from the backboard. Again and again the Alpha Chi guards sent the ball to their forward line but the Kappa defense was in there to stop it. Also, as the Kappa's resorted to man-to-man guarding, they further crippled Alpha Chi's forward line, preventing them from making the set shots by which they usually obtain their score. Kappa's Betsy DeVol took scoring honors with a total of 22 points. Doty Ellett paced Alpha Chi with eight points.

In the play-off between the second place teams Pi Phi ousted Gamma Phi by a score of 20-10. Exhibiting a fast defensive trio, Pi Phi kept the scoring of Gamma Phi at a low level while their forward line...

Fox Transferred

Pete Fox, third member of the quartet, who worked at the Keystone sack, has transferred to the University of Miami, Fla. As if this were not enough, another starting infielder, Third Baseman Bill Post, has left school and would not be eligible even if he were here since he played for Newport News of the Piedmont League last summer. Lane Phillips, Tribe catcher, will do the receiving again.

The pitching staff remains fairly well intact, with last year's Big Four, Jim Stewart, Bob Bernhard, Stan Magdziak and Bob Gill, being counted on as starters. This quartet combined to win 13 games while losing only four. Bernhard and Magdziak went undefeated, winning four and three contests, respectively, while Stewart chalked up a record of four and two and

Mills And Company Invite All And Sundry To Stretch Muscles At Bowling Emporium

By BOB DOLL

No, the rolling, clacking, bumping thump you hear echoing throughout old Williamsburg these days isn't Botty playing mumbly-peg in his grave. It is only the reverberations coming from Williamsburg's newest (only?) recreational establishment, Big Denny's bowling alleys—all four of 'em.

The ancient city finally has a place for the guys and gals to greet, meet, and eat while trimming the waistline and testing the supremacy of the sexes.

Recreation Needed

The Williamsburg rebirth of the sport was not surprising. Realizing the need for a form of recreation to keep the boys in shape out-of-season, the Tribe's retiring football captain decided to attempt to do something about it.

Remembering the days of the old bowling alley, Mills saw no reason that under an efficient management bowling could not be the ideal answer. So he and Chuck Geoghegan put their heads together, pooled their fortunes and came out with a six-month lease of the old site.

Big Improvement

Thursday, two weeks ago, they opened up. Past patrons of the old establishment scarcely recognized the new model. The boys had scoured the alleys spotlessly clean, administered new paint to the fixtures, and begun to decorate the interior. Three pinball machines and a juke box stand along the walls to furnish added recreational facilities. More improvements are in store as the boys are planning larger seating arrangements to take care of the spectators.

So now you lovers of the game as well as any and all in search of something to do, can just drop in and "roll a line." For those few who don't know Williamsburg by heart, the bowling alleys are situated under the A&P store—Henry Street entrance. No neon lights blaze your way, but once in range you'll hear the sound of ball tumbling pin.

Denver and Chuck keep shop each week day from 5-11 p. m. and 2 p. m. to 11 p. m. on the Sabbath. All stags and drags are welcome to stretch a muscle and shoot the breeze while engaging in one of Williamsburg's more healthful indoor sports.

Manhattanville Routs Squaws

Bouncing back from the short end of a 10-8 halftime score, a speedy Manhattanville sextet ran circles around the William and Mary guards to score 26 points and win 34-17, in the Squaws final contest of the season.

A seesaw battle in which the lead changed hands four times marked the first half of the match. Isabel Cosgrain opened the scoring, but Elaine Passow evened things up with a duo of free throws. Again Cosgrain put Manhattanville ahead, but Jimmie Murphy rang up a two pointer for the Squaws and Passow sank her third charity toss to send the Tri-Color squad ahead.

Ann Conroy dropped in a lay-up shot to close the first quarter, and put the New Yorker's ahead, 6-5, at the quarter.

Tight defensive play kept the Manhattanville scoring down to two points in the second quarter. In the meantime, the Squaws' forward trio collected five hard earned points to gain a half-time lead of 10-8.

Tables Turned

The tables were turned in the third quarter when the Squaws were kept to two points, a goal by Murphy. The Manhattanville forwards, on the other hand, seemed quite at ease, rolling up 13 points as they found the basket every time they got their hands on the ball.

The fourth quarter was little better. Millie Riddle and Tommy Smith collected five points for the Tri-Color team, but Manhattanville paced by Conroy again racked up 13 markers by elusive and skillful play.

Conroy, who could hardly get started in the first half, ran rampant in the final frames of the game, collecting a total of 17 points to make her high scorer for the day. Her closest rivals were Murphy, who collected eight points for the Squaws, and Yvonne Simpson of Manhattanville, who gathered seven, markers for her squad.

Says the William and Mary annual, the Colonial Echo, of the '08 football team, "The finish of the past season was so brilliant, that the sting of former defeats have been forgotten." A 21-18 victory over Richmond College and a 10-0 decision over Hampden-Sydney were two reasons for this jubilation.

TRIBE TOPICS

By ED GRIFFIN

Now that the basketball season is over, it might be interesting to look back over it once before going on to the various spring sports. Why did the Indians wind up with a 14 and 12 record instead of something better or something worse? This is rather a complicated question and probably nobody could list all the factors which influenced the Tribe's play. But there are some which seem to be readily apparent and these number four or five.

First of all, the team lacked a guard who could score consistently. Johnny Green is a fine ball handler and his aggressive floor game aided the squad a great deal but he scored just slightly over four points a game. Buddy Lex improved during the season and by its end had learned to work fairly well with his teammates but he couldn't score either. In two games his set shot was working. He got 14 against V. P. I. here and 10 against W&L in the final contest but against other opposition he was held to two and three points on several occasions.

Charlie Sokol, who does an excellent job at one of the forward spots, just couldn't fit in at guard and there seemed to be no reserves who had the experience or ability. Thus, as far as scoring was concerned, the Braves were in many games a three-man team.

Those who saw last year's squad in action will remember that Stan Magdziak made most of the lay-ups while many of the long set shots were the work of Chet Mackiewicz. His one-hand push from close to midcourt was virtually unstoppable and many times it was a major factor in a Tribe victory. Chet scored 136 points in 19 contests, better than seven per game. If he could have been on the court during the month of February instead of on the football practice field the Redmen would have gone to the tournament. One more conference win would have meant the difference. This may sound like a broad statement until you consider the scoring in the V. P. I. and Washington and Lee games which were played there.

Tech won by 56-52 and of these 52 points the Tribe guards made eight. When the Comets eked out a 61-56 win William and Mary's guards contributed seven points to the Brave's total. Three more baskets would have won either of these games and sent the Redmen to Durham.

Probably the one blow which hurt Dick Gallagher's squad most was the loss of Johnny Jorgensen. Had he not been hurt, who can say how different the story might have been. Johnny had almost a 12.5 average for the 12 games in which he played.

Another crippling incident was the loss of Dick Hungerford. When he was declared ineligible the Indians lost another tournament chance. His control of the backboard in the George Washington struggle turned the tide and it was not unreasonable to suppose that he would have continued to play as well.

Inability to make foul shots also contributed to the Tri-Color's downfall in crucial contests. One point may not seem like much but free throws have meant the difference in thousands of games since basketball began. Therefore, when a team misses as many as 17 in one game, this inability is surely the major cause of defeat. Sokol and Charlie Teach seemed to be the only players capable of sinking these shots with any consistency.

All these observations are meant as facts and not as excuses. We feel that the guys did a good job, turning in a better performance than most people thought possible at the beginning of December. They were inconsistent, literally throwing the Richmond game away and then reaching the heights against Washington and Lee; but they improved all the way.

Gallagher sums it up like this: "We had a very successful season, despite the loss of Jorgensen and Hungerford. Though hampered by a lack of reserves, the team came out with a better than .500 record and that was all we had hoped for. Having learned the lessons of this season, the squad is going to be better next year."

That's what we think, too. And we feel that Dick is to be congratulated for the way in which he took a team which had never worked together before and made them into a fighting ball club.

And to the team goes just as much credit, the first-string with Chet Giermak leading the way and the reserves who did their best every time they got in. Bob Holley, probably the most aggressive player on the squad, Jim Bellamy, Bill Lucas and Marvin Atkins will be heard from next year. And let's not forget Les Hooker, Gallagher's able assistant, who helped the Indian cause along.

TENNIS TOPICS

Fred Kovaleski gave ample promise of the shellackings in store for opponents of the William and Mary tennis team this spring by his performance in the national indoors championships last week.

After upsetting the fifth-seeded Frank Shields to gain the quarter-finals, Fred gave Bill Talbert all the competition he wanted for two blistering sets. The Wilmington ace, who ranks sixth nationally, breezed through the third and fourth sets but before that he was hardly able to keep up with the Indian star.

Allison Danzig in reporting the match for the New York Times stated, "The first set of the match between Talbert and Kovaleski was the best that has been seen in the tournament so far. It was hammer and tongs all the way, with every weapon brought into play in punishing give and take and little won except on merit."

The Indian tennis team now boasts three men who can probably whip the No. 1 man of any team which they meet. There is Gardner Larned, ranked 13th nationally, Kovaleski, No. 21, and Tut Bartzon, one of the best in Class A who, with Herbie Flam, was rated seventh in national doubles.

Basketball

wards hit the basket to obtain a quick lead. Bev Owens paced the Pi Phi's with nine points while Gamma Phi's top scorer, Martha Lamborn, accounted for 10 points.

Pi Phi Wins

On March 1, in League A, the Pi Phi's captured a 20-15 victory over Tri Delt. Led by Dotsie Thedick the Tri Delt's maintained a half-time lead of three points, but the Pi Phi's came back to hit the basket for eight points which put them out in front. Bev Owens and Dotsie Thedick took high scoring honors with 11 points apiece.

Also, in League A, Chi Omega bowed to Kappa by a score of 23-20. Taking the lead at the start of the game Kappa was never threatened until the last few minutes when Jane Oblender sank a pair of field goals to boost the Chi O's score. Chi Omega's second team garnered some measure of revenge when they defeated Kappa's second team, 22-11.

Chandler Triumphs

In the dorm final play-off Chandler triumphed 25-19, over Jefferson. Although Jefferson held a four-point lead at the half Chandler tightened their defense to hold Jefferson scoreless while they pulled ahead. In this second round of games Gamma Phi's second team forfeited to the Kappa second team.

As an extra feature on the game calendar Chandler defeated Alpha Chi Omega by a score of 25-19, in a mixed league contest.

Temple Team Blasts Co-eds

By JANE OBLENDER

Last Saturday night the Squaw swimming team suffered a defeat of 53-22 at the hands of the Temple University aquatic squad.

"Johnny" Johnson, starring for the Temple team, captured the 40-yd. freestyle in 22.7 sec. and the 100-yd. freestyle in 1:08.7 sec. She brought her team to victory, when she splashed through the water leading the relay team to a victory in 48.4 sec.

Frances House played the supporting role for the W&M team with substantial aid from Jo Hubbell. Frances placed second in the 100-yd. freestyle in 1:22.2 sec., second in the 100-yd. breaststroke in 1:33 sec., and in the 40-yd. racing backstroke she placed a close second, zipping off two lengths in 31.1 sec.

Stroking in at an easy pace, Hubbell place second in the 40-yd. breaststroke in 35.7 sec. Her supremacy did not continue to last as she placed only third in the 40-yd. freestyle in 29.3 sec.

Relay teams of Wilson, Lloyd and Wright from Temple and Reinbrecht, Hubbell and Wilcox of the Squaw team placed first and second respectively in 41.8 sec. and 44.3 sec.

Since Bobby Majesky, who was the sole diver for the home team, made only 20 points, Wright and Lange of the opposition totalled 75 points.

Theatre, Radio Club To Broadcast Program Of Interviews Over WRNL

Joining forces with the William and Mary Theatre, the Radio club will present a program of interviews in a broadcast over Station WRNL at 7:45 p. m., Mar. 14. Dave McGinn will announce the show, and will have ample opportunity to display his "ad-lib" abilities, as he will interview several members of the audience just before the curtain rises on Comedy of Errors.

Friday's performance will be viewed by several hundred high school students, and Dave plans to bring a few students and teachers to the microphone. Downstairs in the Green room, where the Players will be preparing for the production, Ronald King will interview a number of people in the cast.

Proceedings Witnessed

The audience will witness the entire proceedings, since plans include placing the microphone in the center aisle of Phi Beta Kappa hall.

Last Friday night, the Radio club offered Clint Atkinson's adaptation of Robert Louis Stevenson's short story, Markheim. Ronald King appeared in the title role, Dick Owen as the Pawnbroker, Jean Cutler portraying the Devil, and Helen Fisher and Bill Hux as the Voices. Dave McGinn announced the show which was produced and directed by Mr. Atkinson. Laurie Pritchard did the sound effects, Helen Fisher managed the music, and John Daly assumed the engineer's controls.

Ledgerwood Speaks At Meeting Of AAUP

Dr. Richard C. Ledgerwood, associate professor of psychology, spoke on the subject, "Interpreting Paintings Made by Psychotic Patients," at the March meeting of the AAUP. The meeting was held on Friday evening, Mar. 17, in the Brafferton house.

Dr. Ledgerwood described the project, inaugurated by Dr. Edgar M. Foltin in 1945 and continued by members and students of the psychology department, of studying work of patients at Eastern State hospital. The sponsors of the project aim to develop and standardize a method of psycho-diagnosis, to establish the validity of interpretation of paintings by psychotics, and to develop a method of training in interpreting for workers in psychiatry, he said.

Indian Service Schools To Recruit Teachers

Teachers are now being recruited to fill positions for the 1947-48 school term in the United States Indian Service schools, according to Paul L. Flickinger, district director of Billings, Mont.

Teachers with college degrees and rural background are preferred. In some cases teachers with two years of college credit are considered. Further information can be obtained by writing to Mr. Flickinger, 315 Federal Building, Billings, Mont.

Her office hours until Mar. 17 will be Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 8:30 to 10 a. m. and 11 a. m. to 12 noon and Wednesday and Friday, 9 to 10 a. m. and 11 a. m. to 12 noon.

Baseball

Gill got three wins against two setbacks.

Stewart was the ace of the staff until he hurt his arm about mid-season. Even this handicap, however, couldn't prevent his finishing with a 1.17 earned run average. In his three victories he permitted the opposition a total of just two runs. He hurled a beautiful three-hit shutout against Richmond, beating them, 5-0, as he fanned five and walked only one.

Stewart took care of V.P.I., 11-1, and triumphed over Randolph-Macon, 2-1, as Netcher drove home both tallies with a line single to left. Against the Gobblers, Stewart had a two-hit shutout going into the ninth; but two hits and an error after two were out saved Tech from a whitewashing.

Hooker, who was basketball assistant, is now working with the diamond prospects. Gallagher will take charge Monday after the windup of spring practice.

Extroverts Gather In Tryouts For Backdrop's "Hell and William and Mary"

By JOHN ROTHERT

"Let's get the important people together for a picture," said the photographer. Four men and a girl grouped hurriedly around a table, stared fixedly at copies of the racing form, the flash bulb went off, and the tryouts for the Varsity Show were under way.

Warren Sprouse, to the accompaniment of a piano which had the tone of two maniacs pounding on old bed springs with wooden mallets, led off valiantly with a smooth baritone rendition of "I Don't Know Why," swooning three sorority girls in the first row. He was followed by Ronnie King who presented several original songs, one being especially designed for the Bray twins which, if nothing else, should get them a terrific reputation on campus.

After much coaxing, Jay McQuat climbed resignedly on the stage, clutched the piano, and sang a nervous "Passee" to a background of long low whistles and a few remarks such as, "Who cares if she can sing?" Nevertheless—she can.

Two Fuses Blown

The high point of the evening was Ginna Lewis's high blood pressure rendition of "Minnie From Trinidad," which blew out two fuses in the cooling system and brought about recommendations that a wire screen be erected between her and the male audience.

Rux Birnie, class of '39, rocked the rafters with "Shortenin' Bread" and Marilyn Woodbury gave "class" to the proceeding with an operatic version of "Daydream."

There followed more original music, "only slightly like Gershwin," and the tryouts for skits, the most memorable of which included two French sailors whose French vocabulary consisted of such as, "Chevrolet coupe," and "Ouvre La Porte, Richard."

Sabotage And Suicide

No sooner had the script reading started than some individual, obviously a saboteur, dropped 47 nickles into the juke box, completely drowning out the script readers who had to content themselves with bursting forth in the few seconds required to change records. Finally, in desperation, a representative was dispatched to remedy the situation. He returned in a state of complete frustration, and still the music played on, long and loud. At last, lots were drawn and the three unlucky winners formed into a suicide squad which departed amid tears and fond goodbyes. Tense minutes passed. Then, suddenly, there was a violent explosion, half the lights went out, and the music stopped—mission accomplished. The three returned to their cheering comrades unscathed except for one individual who got his nose caught in the turntable. Now, every time he blows it, it plays, "There Ain't Nobody Here But Us Chickens."

Despite the lack of organization, the tryouts made it very clear that there is a great deal of talent on campus. The men in charge are capable and know their business. This year's varsity show, aptly titled, "Hell and William and Mary," will need only the support of the general student body to make it something of which we can all be proud.

World Federalist Chapter To Make Plans For Broadcast, Town Meeting

Last Wednesday night, the United World Federalists chapter at William and Mary began formulating plans for a town meeting in Williamsburg, a radio broadcast on Mar. 21, and future public discussions of problems of world government.

John Helfrich, Virginia representative to the Ashville, N. C., conference of all world federalists groups, read a conference report. Helfrich, who is in charge of sponsoring new chapters of United World Federalists for the William and Mary chapter, will speak tomorrow night to a joint committee representing the civic, religious and professional organizations of Williamsburg, outlining the proposal for an adult chapter of the group.

Melville Kahn, president of the William and Mary student's chapter, has asked all students to cooperate with the members of the chapter who are canvassing the campus on questions of the moment relative to world government, security and peace policy. The canvass will be conducted throughout this week, and the results will be tabulated and published in The FLAT HAT.

Collection Of Books Presented To Library

A valuable collection of books, prints and papers originally belonging to John Millington, one of the most distinguished names associated with the College of William and Mary faculty during the 19th century, has been presented to the College of William and Mary library.

Robert H. Land, associate librarian, announced the receipt of the gift from Frank Blankenship and his sister, Miss Kate Blankenship, both of Richmond. Mr. Millington was the grandfather of the donors.

Mr. Millington became professor of chemistry, natural philosophy and engineering at the college in 1835, and devoted the remainder of his life to "teaching the natural sciences to the restless sons of the old South."

Early Printed Works

The gift, Mr. Land explained, includes a collection of early printed works, such as Andrew Yarrantea's England's Improvement by Sea and Land, To Out-do the Dutch Without Fighting, To Pay Debts Without Money (London, 1677), Barrow's edition of Euclid's Elements (London, 1732), and Henry Power's Experimental Philosophy (London, 1664).

The Blankenships turned over to the college eight volumes of the diary kept by Mr. Millington while he was in Williamsburg. A scrupulous diarist, he has candidly recorded every detail of the local scene that happened to intrigue his interest. These volumes cover the year 1844 and 1845 and give an unexcelled glimpse of the intellectual life and activity of the college during its most flourishing phase.

Jones, Council Elected Heads Of Kappa Delta Pi

Lucy Jones was elected president of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education fraternity, at a meeting of the fraternity on Wednesday evening, Mar. 5, in the Apollo room.

Other new officers are as follows: Bill Council, vice-president; Katherine Rhodes, secretary; Lois Rilee, treasurer; and Vivian DeFord, historian-reporter. Kenneth H. Cleeton, associate professor of education, was chosen counselor of the fraternity.
